NATIONAL AWARD FOR LOCAL COMPANY

Polyseal Insulation is “Tops” in the Country

Palm Springs, California (January 28, 2014): The Spray Polyurethane Foam Alliance (SPFA) presented their national, awards of excellence last Tuesday. Polyseal Insulation, in the Mat-Su Valley, emerged a winner for their large-scale insulation work on the Cape Romanzof Long Range Radar Site, Alaska.

Polyseal Insulation was awarded the stately, crystal sculpture for the Specialty Applications category at the gala event. Nominations were received throughout 2013 from across the country. Gleaned from an extensive list to four finalists, Polyseal Insulation’s work on the radar site was judged by peers to be the best in the country. Nominations are judged independently by a panel of industry experts. Nominations are anonymous to the panel who vote securely online from their home state. The logistics of moving equipment and material to the wind blown site impressed all as did the fine insulation work they did on the dome-shaped buildings.

Polyseal Insulation has been involved in the spray foam industry for 10 years. Meeting professional standards set by the alliance, Polyseal Insulation commits to improving their staff and product through continual education, and accreditation. As a national award winner, they are poised to share their expertise with many local residential and commercial insulation projects.

The SPFA (Spray Polyurethane Foam Alliance) is the voice and educational arm of the polyurethane foam industry. SPFA delivers training, industry certification, leadership on energy conservation, the environment, health & safety, building codes and technical advances in the industry. Members are professional contractors, manufacturers and distributors who strive to educate, regulate and improve the trade.
